

Volunteer role description

TEAM MACMILLAN ACTION TEAM MEMBER

Our Action Team are our core volunteers across the UK. Join our friendly and reliable ongoing team and help us fundraise, create memorable events, raise awareness and campaign. From marathons to festivals and supermarket collections to black tie events there are hundreds of different events UK-wide where your time will make a difference. Together, we can be right there for people with cancer.

What's involved?

You'll provide support when you can, depending on activities taking place in your local area, which could include:

- Marshall, cheer, collect money or provide practical support in other ways at our events - from walks to marathons, cycles, swims and race days. Other locations may be festivals/gigs, special events, fetes, and balls
- Support Macmillan locally by spreading the word through campaigning, in-office support, putting up posters, and using your social media accounts
- Other ad-hoc activities may arise on the day

What will you get out of it?

- Use your communication and influencing skills to talk about what Macmillan provides
- Develop your listening and empathising skills
- Be a part of a friendly team that makes a difference in the community
- Receive a briefing and support on the day, and pre-agreed out-of-pocket expenses reimbursed within our guidelines

How much time should I give?

This is a completely flexible volunteer role, for which we'd recommend a few hours every few months, or more if you have the time. You will be notified of new opportunities by email and phone.

We want to help everyone with cancer find their best way through, from the moment of diagnosis, so they're able to live life as fully as they can. You can be someone who makes that happen. Whether it's minutes or months, hours or days, the time you give by volunteering with Macmillan really does matter.
